

The Brave and the Bold #28 Justice League of America (DC, 1960) First appearance of the Justice League of America, Rare in high grade due to white back cover. The issue is also the first appearance of villain Starro and gadfly/sidekick Snapper Carr, and it's just the fourth appearance of the Silver Age Green Lantern, pre-dating his own book. Gary Carter noted that for a generation too young to have heard of the Justice Society, this key "meant that all the DC characters must live in the same universe... that they must have heard of each other... and most importantly, that they could have adventures together! This 'new' team concept was a revelation with far-reaching implications.

The Justice League, also known as the Justice League of America, is a fictional superhero team appearing in American comic books published by DC Comics. The Justice League was conceived by writer Gardner Fox, and first appeared in The Brave and the Bold #28 (March 1960). The team is an assemblage of superheroes appearing in other DC Comics publications who join together as the Justice League. The seven original members were Aquaman, Batman, the Flash, Green Lantern, the Martian Manhunter, Superman, and Wonder Woman. The team roster has rotated throughout the years, consisting of many superheroes from the DC Universe in a variety of combinations. The Justice League received its own comic book title called Justice League of America in October 1960. With the 2011 relaunch of its titles, DC Comics released a second volume of Justice League and in 2015 released a fourth volume of Justice League of America, both of which are currently in print. Since its inception, the team has been featured in various television programs and video games.
